The HSML Professor of the Year Award

Awarded by the student body of the George Washington University,
Department of Health Services Management and Leadership, 2012

What Students Are Saying:

“I appreciated how he incorporated ethics into economics. We often spent considerable time on case studies examining ethical complications that come with the economics of health care. Dr. Graboyes taught us to consider multiple perspectives in decision making and did an incredible job provoking thought and encouraging student input.” - Jonathan Morgan

“Dr. Graboyes brought a very conversational and open approach to class. I appreciated his commitment to our class and the unique perspectives he brought to our discussions.” - Ayla Baughman
